Bio for: Dr. Dennis W. Neder

Over 30 years of success in the worlds of business, dating, sex and relationships, sales and marketing, psychology, sociology and human interactions give Dr. Neder a unique perspective on men's relationships with women. In addition to starting and building a number of successful businesses, he has also held positions on numerous boards, commissions and committees, is a commissioner for the County of Los Angeles, and has proven his dating and relationship techniques in the toughest market – Southern California. Now, his experience can be yours!

His books, "Being a Man in a Woman's World", Volumes I & II (with volume III soon to be released) and "1001 Places and Techniques to Meet Great Women" have become the must-have topic of thousands of radio and TV programs and in print media. By taking the difficult concepts of dating and relationships and applying a proven business and personal-development models, men (and especially women) all over the world are reaping the benefits. "Dating isn't rocket science..." according to Dr. Neder, "But, who is going to use their own love life as a testing ground?" Now, you don't have to!

In addition to working on two new books, writing articles (over 600 so far!) and having released CD and DVD series, Dr. Neder is the host of the popular BAM! ("Being a Man") TV. He's also a speaker and comedic host and writes weekly articles that appear on hundreds of Internet websites and newsletters. He's even answered over 26,000 (yes, thousand!) letters from readers all over the world!

Dr. Neder's bold, confident style has earned him a reputation of being challenging, fair and unusually insightful. His audience praises his directness, clarity and sense of humor. Not one to shy away from controversy, Dr. Neder has written many articles on single mothers, infidelity, men's rights, dating multiple people at the same time, and even sadomasochism!

Opinionated, direct and funny – this is one powerful, entertaining author and relationship expert!
